Ernest Holmes, one of the father's of New Thought, has written: "To the person who can perfectly practice inaction, all things are possible." You are invited to come explore and understand how inaction is far more powerful than forceful action.

Rev. Noel McInnis is an ordained doctorate minister of Religious Science and Field Minister for Emerging Initiatives at New Thought Center for Spiritual Living in Lake Oswego, OR. He is a holistic educator, author, editor, musician, songwriter, poet, storyteller, humorist, workshopsmith, and lifelong student of self-transformational teachings from earliest historical times to the present. He was a co-founder in the 1960's and 1970's of the North American environmental education movement, and in the early 1980's served as managing editor of Marilyn Ferguson's Brain/Mind Bulletin. He also edited Barbara Marx Hubbard's commentary on the New Testament, Revelation: Our Crisis Is a Birth. He is presently mentoring a dozen first-time authors in writing and publishing their forthcoming books.
