Important Information About Revisions to Your KeyBank National Association Funds Availability Policy

The Expedited Funds Availability Act (Act) regulates how banks make the funds you deposit to your Account available to you. This Act is changing and starting on July 21, 2011, we will be changing KeyBank's Funds Availability Policy. Currently the Expedited Funds Availability Act requires that up to $100 of the aggregate deposit by check or checks not subject to next-day availability on any one banking day be made available on the next business day. Effective on July 21, 2011, the Act will change increasing the amount to $200.

Here's what this means to you.

KeyBank's current Funds Availability Policy is to make the first $100 of total deposits made on a business day to any type of Personal deposit account and the following types of Business deposit accounts: Key Business Free Checking, Key

Provided there are no holds placed on your deposit the rest of the deposit is available on the next business day after the day of your deposit. For the account types listed above, effective on July 21, 2011, KeyBank will continue to make the first $100 of your total deposits made on a business day available to you on that same business day and the rest of your deposit available on the next business day after the day of your deposit. However, if a Case by Case hold is placed on your deposit we will make the first $200 of your total deposit made on a business day available to you on the next business day after the day of your deposit and the rest of the funds will be available on the second business day after the day of your deposit.

For check deposits made to other types of Business deposit accounts, not listed above, KeyBank's current Funds Availability Policy is to make the first $100 of each deposit available on the next business day after the day of deposit and the rest of the deposit available no later than the second business day after the day of deposit. Effective on July 21, 2011, KeyBank will make the first $200 of each deposit available on the next business day after the day of deposit and the rest of the deposit available no later than the second business day after the day of deposit.
